

Working In A Busy Pub Restaurant

1. In each pub restaurant the chefs have a lot to do
Meals to cook for oh quite a few
They're usually busy with an oven and oven-pan
Making for the customers everything they can
2. Yes preparing a dinner that everyone loves
The chefs are often using quite protective oven gloves
Trying to get the timing perfectly right
To have each meal to each customers deep delight
3. Whilst which food to eat having a think
The clients regularly first ask for plenty a drink
Due to this people from near and far
Are often keeping some folk busy working at the bar
4. When to finish cooking the food the chefs have been able
The waiters and waitresses take it to the hungry orderer's table
Where they eat it in a bit of a dash
Sometimes with Yorkshire-pudding and a nice bit of mash
5. In pub restaurants for all the staff time really flies by
With lots of requests for food and drinks without a lie
Then everyone to pay does queue up at the till
Having had a meal and drink that's been oh quite a thrill
